This house was built in the first quarter of the twentieth century by Donald Stewart, youngest son of Judge James A. Stewart. (See 203 High Street). The lot was the site of a cottage built in 1851 by Judge Stewart. On his death in 1879, the lot passed to his widow Rebecca, who devised it to her son Donald in 1899. Donald tore down the cottage and built this vernacular style house. The structure is not particularly significant from an architectural or historical point of view, but blends in with the other historic houses on High Street.
